Experience

Alice B. Newman, Esq., is a well regarded, experienced and successful attorney who has served clients in Florida, New York, New Jersey, and for over two decades. Alice maintains offices in Boca Raton, Florida and Montvale, New Jersey and is licensed to practice law in Florida, New York, and New Jersey. She is uniquely qualified to represent individuals who have relocated to Florida but continue to have ties to the Northeast, as well as "snowbirds" from those states who have not determined whether to become Florida residents.

As a result of her integrity and dedication, a large percentage of Alice's practice has developed through interaction with and referrals from her many professional colleagues and loyal client base. Referring attorneys from New York and New Jersey take comfort in the fact that Alice has the experience and qualifications to practice law in their states, as well as in Florida. Her broad background and experience enable her to recognize the interplay and impact that each state's laws may have on individual legal matters. Clients who reside in one or more of these states or who maintain residential or commercial properties, businesses and even bank accounts in the Northeast may be confident that Alice's unique perspective is invaluable in dealing with legal issues that may affect them in Florida, New York, and New Jersey.

Professionalism

Alice B. Newman, Esq., represents her clients with professionalism and compassion in all matters, whether substantial or modest, complex or simple. The foundation for her success is not only her knowledge and expertise in the law, but her ability to build personal relationships with her clients as well. The needs of clients are varied and Alice prides herself on giving each client the confidence that he or she will be well represented. In addition to acting as a client advocate, Alice also serves as trusted advisor and friend. Her clients soon learn that they can turn to a single source for thoughtful, well-informed guidance and effective advocacy. Colleagues referring matters to Alice find her responsive to their need for limited representation of their clients and flexible in arranging the appropriate scope of representation.

Equally important is Alice's understanding that in an increasingly litigious society, timely attention to detail and sensitivity to the issues at hand are vital. She helps her clients identify areas of concern in the planning and administration of estates; purchase and sale of residential and commercial properties; and the purchase, sale and formation of businesses in Florida, New York, and New Jersey.

Alice B. Newman, Esq., uses her intelligence, education, experience, and sensitivity to successfully solve legal problems for individuals and businesses in a variety of settings.
